BACKGROUND INFORMATION -

This agenda item relates to a proposed faculty-led study abroad learning experience in Seville, Spain. Las Positas College's Professors Wing Brooks and Dan Cearley propose to offer two hybrid courses, HUMN 11 Arts and Culture I: Ancient World to Renaissance and ANTR 2 Intro to Archaeology, in summer 2027. The first four weeks of the course, beginning June 4, 2027, will be spent in Seville, Spain to learn in person, on site, in an immersive setting. The courses will be completed for two weeks online after the trip has concluded. In Spain, students will mix classroom time with time visiting sites in Seville and nearby areas of Spain to provide for experiential learning. They will also do homework on their own in their residences and in groups during evening activities.

The selected provider for this trip is AIFS, a provider with decades of experience running credit-bearing study abroad trips for community college consortia and individual faculty. The major terms of the attached agreement are that AIFS provides pre-departure support services, health and safety support, airport transfers, home stay accommodations with breakfast and lunch meals, a welcome meal and farewell meal with in-country student support, academic support, and various cultural activities and excursions, all outlined on the attached proposed itinerary. Faculty support includes accommodation in a self-catered studio apartment and “full participation on all activities and excursions scheduled on the itinerary, on the same basis as the students, including travel pass, group meals, transfers, entrances, sightseeing tours, etc.” Airfare is not included.

The two classes are part of the regular FTEF allocation to the respective departments, and hence there are no additional costs to the college/district. Students and faculty will cover the costs of their own travel.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION -

BP 4250 Academic and Progress Notice, Pause and Restart

The Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges amended Title 5 to replace “probation” and “dismissal” with language and practices focused on supporting students back to good standing. Districts must conform local policies and procedures within 180 days of the regulations’ effective date. The revisions to BP 4250 make those required changes.

What changes for students:

- “Academic probation” and “progress probation” become academic notice and progress notice.
- “Academic dismissal” and “progress dismissal” become academic pause and progress pause.
- A student returning from pause does so through academic or progress restart.
- A student on notice who earns a term grade point average (GPA) of 2.0 or higher, or completes more than 50 percent of attempted units, receives one additional term on notice, even if cumulative deficiencies remain.
- Students on pause remain eligible for support services and may enroll in noncredit courses.

The state’s conformance deadline fell before this regular meeting, leaving no time for the customary first and second reading through participatory governance. The revised BP and AP were shared with Chancellor’s Council on October 13, 2026, as an information item, with track changes showing the Title 5 revisions. Constituency representatives expressed support for moving away from punitive probation language, and no objections were raised. This expedited path is used rarely; the last comparable instance was the district’s vaccination policy during the COVID-19 pandemic.

As with any Board Policy, constituency groups may request further review. Any refinements beyond the Title 5 requirements will return through the normal participatory governance process, including consultation with the Academic Senates on academic standards.

The revised policy advances our commitment to student success and equity by keeping students connected to support at the moment they are most at risk of leaving.
